Carolyn Robson as Guest Leader with her

Singing Workshop

Saturday 17 October 2026 • 10 am – 4 pm

Her teaching in her choirs and workshops is about technique and the basics that an untrained, un-auditioned singer needs to know, but it is always about meaning and communication, what the singer and their audience need to understand and feel.

Carolyn Robson is a freelance performer, choral music director, teacher, workshop leader, composer and arranger. She has a deep love for, and knowledge of, the folk song tradition of the British Isles. But she ventures further afield in her performance repertoire and in the songs she teaches in her choirs and choral workshops.

Carolyn is music director of two choirs in Hampshire, involving nearly 100 singers. She has been a frequent workshop leader at choral events across the UK, in North America and New Zealand.

RYV Music Director Lester Simpson has co-led workshops with her at Halsey Manor, The National Centre for Folk Arts: "Carolyn is a joy and an inspiration to work with, so I know we will all have fun and learn a great deal when she comes to Wirksworth this Autumn."
